

Jamaican Me

Crazy

Mr Macintosh is an example of an experienced teachers who dies for teaching because he believes that the world should be better educated. After hearing about the education in England it influenced him to migrate from Jamaica to England, this is shown by his fluent English and Jamaican accent. MR MACINTOSH is one of the great gifts of migration. Being a immigrate has changed his life but in a good way and he believes that nothing bad has come from his big decision. We know that difference can cause name calling, but these are his wise words. “YES, 100% I THINK IT GAVE ME THE RESILIENCE NOT TO CALL EVERYTHING BULLYING,AS YOU CALL IT BANTER,BANTER WOULD HAVE MADE TO STRENGTHY YOU,SO JOKES,HUMOUR WAS VERY OFTEN USE TO STRENGTH YOUR CHARACTERISTICS AND YES, I THINK IT HAS ADDED TO MY RESILIANCE!”

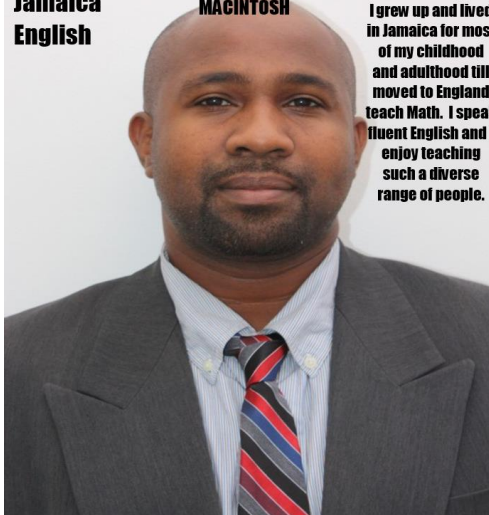

{we told him off for using slang!} This is one of his statements in his interview.

Do you know how many languages are spoken at BDA? BDA is rich with multicultural students and staff. There are little to no incidents about racism at BDA. We even celebrate all cultures during Black History Month. In black history month we celebrate all the the joys of diversity and the discrimination problems black people all around the world have been through and how they managed to just walk past it. Debates on immigration are relevant now more than ever, especially given the recent influx of stories about the migrant crisis. Should Britain take more?

Reported by Ledion and Sumaya 7U

Diversity is the spice of life

LANGUAGE AND ORIGIN: Jamaica English	NAME: MR Lance MACINTOSH	PERSONAL INFORMATION: I grew up and lived in Jamaica for most of my childhood and adulthood till moved to England teach Math. I speak fluent English and I enjoy teaching such a diverse range of people.
---	---------------------------------------	---

A portrait of Mr. Lance Macintosh, a Black man with a short beard and mustache, wearing a dark suit jacket, a light blue shirt, and a striped tie. He is looking directly at the camera with a neutral expression.